Parents, Families and Friends of the Class of 1986,

Two events of particular interest to graduates and friends of UMM have occurred during the 1985-86 academic year. The first is connected to President Kenneth Keller's proclamation in his Commitment to Focus statement that the University will strive to become even stronger than it is now, and will work to achieve even greater prominence as one of the top higher educational institutions in the country. To reach this goal, The Minnesota Campaign has been created. It will be the most ambitious fund raising effort ever undertaken by the University of Minnesota, and in its turn, by UMM. President Keller anticipates that The Minnesota Campaign will provide the means whereby the University can achieve the level of excellence called for in his Commitment to Focus.

Since no educational institution is stronger than its students, the emphasis of the UMM segment of The Minnesota Campaign is on scholarships for high ability students. It is a continuation of a fund raising effort for scholarships initiated over five years ago. Many of the students graduating this evening have been recipients of these types of assistance. It is my hope that the number, frequency, and amount will increase dramatically as a result of The Minnesota Campaign.

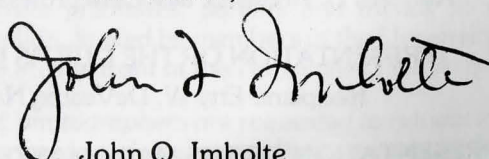

The other event is related to the first. UMM has recently received some highly favorable and complimentary publicity in both national and statewide publications. In each instance, the emphasis has been on the high quality of UMM's academic program along with its relatively low cost. The latest article in Money magazine suggests that UMM is one of ten public higher education institutions which has an "ivy twist."

As a result of this publicity starting back in late 1983, UMM is gradually losing its image as "the best kept secret" in Minnesota higher education. Most importantly, this image change is occurring for the right reason. We are becoming well known for the high quality of our academic program in the liberal arts. We are grateful for the publicity. At the risk of sounding a bit arrogant, we think it is well deserved.

The Minnesota Campaign and the recognition of UMM by others are intimately bound together. A successful fund raising effort can only mean an even stronger UMM.

On behalf of faculty, students, and staff at UMM, I extend warm congratulations to our 1986 graduates. You have already contributed a great deal by helping to build UMM's reputation. You can continue that effort through the ability, dedication, and sensitivity you bring to your future endeavors.

Best wishes,

American Academic Apparel

American academic apparel goes back in its essential features to the middle ages. The oldest northern European universities grew out of church schools. Both faculty and students were regarded as part of the clergy and wore clerical garb based upon monastic dress routinely, rather than merely on special occasions.

The head covering, developed from the skull cap, acquired a point on top, which gradually evolved into a tassel. In Europe the bonnet with tassel is still worn, but has been replaced in America by the mortar board with tassel.

The hood was originally worn over the head in bad weather and otherwise dropped onto the shoulders like a monk's cowl. First worn by both faculty and students, the hood became restricted to graduates in the early sixteenth century. Today the hood is lined with the official colors of the alma mater. In addition, the borders of most hoods are colored according to the scholarly field of the wearer. Some hood border colors are: maize (agriculture), white (arts, letters, humanities), drab (business), copper (economics), light blue (education), brown (fine arts), crimson (journalism), purple (law), lemon (library science), pink (music), apricot (nursing), silver gray (speech), dark blue (philosophy), sage green (physical education), salmon pink (public health), golden yellow (science), cream (social science), citron (social work), and scarlet (theology).

The gown seems to have been borrowed from the Benedictine monk's habit. In the middle ages, undergraduates, bachelors and masters could be distinguished by the simplicity or elaborateness of their gowns. The master's gowns were often furred, a decoration surviving as the three velvet bars now used on the voluminous sleeves of the doctoral gown.

Included in this program are the names of candidates eligible for graduation at the time of printing. The degree is officially granted after the final grades have been recorded and successful completion of all graduation requirements has been verified.

Program Coordinated and Prepared by University Relations Staff in conjunction with UMM Records Office, Admissions and Financial Aids Office and Functions and Awards Committee.

Printed by UMM Duplicating Services.

On the Cover:

The Official Seal of the University of Minnesota Board of Regents includes an antique lamp, representing the metaphysical sciences; a telescope, representing the physical sciences; a plough, the industrial arts; and the palette and brushes, the fine arts.

The motto in Latin encircling these symbols is "Commune Vinculum Omnibus Artibus," translated as "a common bond for all the arts."

The University of Minnesota is committed to the policy that all persons shall have access to its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, creed, color, sex, handicap or national origin.
